

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for treating a work material containing a target constituent, including the steps of presenting the work material for treating in accordance with the method; and applying a treating agent to the work material operable to treat the work material to render substantially harmless the target constituent in the work material.